The steel strike is said to have been settled and the men are returning to their work. It is reported that President Shaffer has settled on terms far less liberal than those offered by the trust at the beginning of the strike, and in consequence of this he is in great disfavor with the men. The strike has been a long one and many of the men have suffered by it and the leaders who ordered it are no longer worthy of the confidence which has been reposed in them.

President Roosevelt's every act since assuming the office of his fallen chief has been such as to win for him the approbation and the confidence of the American people. His announcement that he should continue "absolutely and without variance the policy of President McKinley for the peace, prosperity and honor of the United States," showed that he understood that President McKinley was thoroughly in accord with the people. In asking the McKinley cabinet to remain with him and assist in carrying out the policy is still further proof of his intentions to continue the policy which has given us prosperity at home and honor abroad. While the new president is an aggressive and impetuous man, he is a man of sound judgment and one who will be willing to heed the counsel of the leaders of his party. No more typical American could be named than President Roosevelt and it is safe to say that he will guide the ship of state with a firm hand and an ever watchful eye, jealously guarding the interests of the country at every point and conducting to a successful close the policy of his distinguished predecessor.

MCKINLEY'S MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE.

Had President McKinley known that he was to meet death in a few hours, he could have left no nobler message to the American people whose welfare and prosperity he ever had at heart, than the speech delivered at Buffalo the day before his assassination, the concluding sentences of which were as follows:

"Let us ever remember that our interest is in concord, not conflict; and that our real eminence rests in the victories of peace, not those of war.
We hope that all who are represented here may be moved to higher and nob-ler effort for their own and the world's good and that out of this city may come not only greater commerce and trade for us all, but more essential than these, relations of mutual respect, confidence and friendship which will deepen and endure. Our earnest prayer is that God will graciously vouchsafe prosperity, happiness and peace to all our neighbors and like blessings to all the peoples and powers of earth."

Although President McKinley's efforts on the platform have characterized him as the leading statesman of America his speech at Buffalo has been truly said to be the masterpiece of his life. During the four years which he served as the nation's chief magistrate he was obliged to face unforeseen and extraordinary conditions, requiring a radical change from the policy handed down from year to year. That he met and dealt wisely with the changed conditions is shown by the unparalleled prosperity the country is now enjoying.

The great national problem having been solved he had been re-elected for a second term of office with every prospect that at its close he could retire to his Canton home and enjoy a well earned rest from public life.
But at the very height of his fame he was stricken down by the bullet of an assassin. His untimely end has brought grief to the nation which loved and honored him as a statesman and citizen and among whose people the memory of his exemplary life and loyal service will be an enduring monument as lasting as the nation itself.

SUPPRESS ANARCHISM.

Various methods are being suggested for protecting the chief executive of the nation from attacks by such creatures as Czolgosz, among them being the doing away with all public receptions and guarding the executive very closely whenever he appears in public. We believe that the public receptions should be continued as heretofore but at such times there should be a sufficient number of officers present to look after all suspicious characters and see that they are not allowed a chance to harm the president. Our presidents are elected by the people and while there are various political parties in the country, after the election has been declared and the victorious candidate has assumed the duties of his office he becomes the president of the nation and every loyal American should be as ready to lay down his life in defense of the chief executive of the nation as in defense of his country's flag on the field of battle.

The people wish to meet and grasp the hand of the man whom they have selected for their chief and the very qualities which have made him their leader will make it a pleasure to him to meet them whenever the opportunity arises. To have deprived President McKinley of his public receptions would have deprived him of much of his pleasure and a part of his usefulness as chief magistrate of the country, for these meetings give him a chance to keep more closely in touch with the people.

Instead of doing away with these receptions let us do away with the societies which are a menace to all law and order. Let us make it treason to make an assault upon the president of the nation, for no more treasonable act could be committed. The attack upon President McKinley was not made because of personal hatred but was made because he was the head of the nation, and was aimed at the very existence of the nation. Our immigration laws should be made more rigid and anarchists should be kept out of the country as far as possible.
They should not be allowed to hold either public or private meetings and their publications which are filled with treasonable utterances should be suppressed. While the people should have the privilege of criticizing the actions of the officials of the nations they should not be allowed to go about over the country, as Emma Goldman has been doing, advocating the killing of our officials and doing away with all law and order.

Every precautionary measure possible may be taken, yet the president will never be safe from these people until their leaders are driven from the country and their societies are broken up. Let us strike at the root of the trouble at once and by prompt and decisive legislation do away with all chance of our nation again being brought to grief by the assassination of its chief magistrate.

ORLEANS COUNTY COURT.

Court convened Tuesday morning, and Maud Gay plead guilty to open and gross lewdness and was sentenced to the reform school. Chas. Lyford plead guilty to keeping a house of ill-fame and was sent to the house of correction for two years. Z. C. Palmer plead guilty to a third offense of intoxication and paid his fine, and Geo.
Scott plead guilty to breaking jail and was sent to the house of correction for six months. Tuesday afternoon the trial of Frank Provoncha of Ira-burg was begun. He was indicted for an assault upon Maud Clark, and the jury found him guilty. Graham and Frank Miles for the State, J. W. Redmond for respondent.

Wednesday afternoon the case of State vs. Frank Jenkins was tried.
Jenkins was indicted for exploding dynamite in Sargent's pond, for the purpose of killing fish. The jury found him not guilty; Graham and Frank Miles for the State and Cook & Williams for respondent.

Court adjourned over Thursday on account of the funeral of President McKinley, and took up the case of Munson vs. Hood's estate on Friday morning. This is a civil case and the only one left; Graham and W. W.
Miles for Munson, Cook & Williams for appellant.

We give below the report rendered by the grand jury after investigating the county jail:

TO THE HONORABLE COUNTY COURT WITHIN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF OR-LEANS.

The Grand Jury of said county would respectfully report as follows: First. We find that the public burial grounds and the fences around the same are all in good condition.

Second. We find that the United States deposit money and the interest thereon has been managed and disbursed according to law.

Third. We find that the several towns have collected and expended the state school tax as provided by law.

Fourth. We have examined the county jail and find it totally unfit for the use for which it was designed. We think at the present time people provide better accommodations for their animals. We find it unsafe and un-sanitary and a disgrace to the county, and we emphatically recommend a new jail.

the National Relief Corps, at the annual encampment of the G. A. R. at Cleveland recently. Mrs. Jones is a charter member of Washburn W. R. C.

Wrecked in the North Sea.

The British torpedo boat destroyer, Cobra, foundered in the North Sea last Wednesday, the result of an explosion, and out of a crew of seventy-nine men sixty-seven lost their lives. The Cobra was a turbine engine vessel and the fastest torpedo boat destroyer in the world.

Canada's Royal Visitors.

The Duke of Cornwall and York, son of King Edward of England was entertained at both Quebec and Montreal last week. The duke accompanied by the duchess, is making an extensive tour of the British provinces.
At Montreal elaborate preparations had been made for the reception of the royal party, but the death of President McKinley caused the program to be altered. The duke has been very strict in his determination to mark his and his country's respect for the late president and his visit to Montreal was practically a private character.

Close of G. A. R. Encampment.

The convention of the 35th annual encampment of the G. A. R. at Cleveland, Ohio, came to a close Sept. 13.
Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, of New York, withdrew his name as a candidate for the office of commander when the names were mentioned. Comrade Ayers, of Delaware, moved the nomination of Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, Gen. Gobin seconding.
Governor Van Sant, of Minnesota, placed Judge Torrance in nomination.
The Torrance vote stood 476 to Stewart 230, and when General Wagner moved that the vote be made unanimous in favor of Torrance, the motion was carried. Other officers elected were senior vice commander, John McElroy of Washington, D. C.; junior vice commander, James O'Donnell of Illinois; surgeon general, Dr. W. R. Thrall of Cincinnati; chaplain in chief, Rev. L.
M. Boyle, of Pennsylvania.

With this Ring I wed thee.

—Shakespeare.

The ring of love and the ring of goodness should be blended in the wedding ring. A man buys nothing in life that he wants to be so sure of as he does the quality of his wedding or engagement ring. He wants the best—he wants just what he pays for, and he wants to buy it quietly and secretly.
Goodness and secrecy are two strong points in my wedding and engagement ring selling. All sizes to fit any finger.

YOU ARE ADVERTISED BY THE STATIONERY YOU USE.

Having this in mind, why not make a good impression, when it is just as easy as the other kind.
If you use printed headings why not have the good kind, the attractive kind, such as we make.
If you use plain goods, why not have something indicative of good taste instead of the "anything-will-do" style. The difference in expense is trifling, and the satisfaction from using a good article overbalances it many times. To know more about it,
